RECRUITING.

The recruiting business by the County Veterans Committee is making rapid progress under the supervision of Mr. H. H. Hiett. The difficulties which he has to overcome in his important duties are numerous and obstinate. Several counties of this State and the large cities of New England are represented in the City by recruiting agents, who are very active in obtaining recruits for the places they represent. The manner of enlisting here, however, is not so good as it probably might be. It should be checked at once by the proper authorities.

LINDSEY BLUES.

HEADQUARTERS LINDSEY BLUES REGIMENT,
MERCER HOUSE, CORNER BRIDGE AND MER-
CEY STREETS, NEW YORK, N. Y., July 22, 1864.

The recruiting committee of this regiment are hereby directed to assemble at these headquarters on Saturday, at 8 p. m., in order to complete the muster roll. By order,
JOHN N. WILKEY, Col. Commanding.

CORONER'S INQUESTS.—An inquest was yesterday held by Coroner Collis, at Bellevue Hospital, on the body of James P. Jones, aged 7 years, who was hurled on Tuesday last by falling from some hoisting apparatus at the foot of East Nineteenth street. His name was not yesterday recovered. He resided with his mother at No. 214 East Twenty-first street. ... Coroner Nassau yesterday held an inquest on the body of Philip Smith, who was killed by a falling piece of machinery falling on him, at the place by a piece of machinery falling on him, at Pier No. 11 North river. Deceased was 50 years of age, and a native of Ireland.

Coroner Collis yesterday held an inquest at Bellevue Hospital on the body of an unknown man who was hurled from a building near West, in an insensible condition, and died soon after reaching the hospital. A medical examination showed that he died of a rupture of the heart. From papers found on the body of the deceased it is supposed that his name was J. F. Vanderover, and that he was dressed in a blue coat, black pants and a black shirt with white stripes. He was also wearing a blue coat, black pants, blue coat and white shirt. The body was buried in the city of New York.

ALLEGED LARCENY.—Patrick Maloney, a sailor, was yesterday committed by Justice Dowling on a charge of stealing $270 from a soldier named Wm. Burke. Both were stopping at the boarding house No. 66 Cherry street, and yesterday morning Burke came down to breakfast, leaving, by mistake, under his pillow a belt containing the money. It is charged that in his absence Maloney entered the room and stole it.
